

Cancer Specialist Library

<http://www.library.nhs.uk/cancer/>

The Cancer Specialist Library is a unique evidence-based resource committed to supporting busy health professionals find the high-quality cancer information they need to keep up-to-date. It provides a comprehensive range of links to emerging guidance and evidence and strive to organise cancer information in accessible and innovative ways, through our Knowledge Updates and National Knowledge Weeks (see above). Patients, families and the general public are also welcome to use the site.

Oxford Cancer Information

<http://www.oxfordcancerinfo.org.uk/>

This is a website with practical information for on coping with cancer, the effects of treatment and links to the help and support for all those affected by any type of cancer. It also has local information about the teams & services patients will come into contact within Oxfordshire.

Many patients have said that they find it difficult to find the information they need on the internet. This website, for patients & professionals has selected reliable sites to start a search through the internet.

Chris Alcock (Cancer Lead for the ORH) who has been heavily involved in the development of these two websites said 'We would welcome Primary Care feedback on these websites-the first is predominantly for health professionals, while the second is aimed at patients, carers and the general public'
